DAVID GERSTEIN

David has a unique style. David Gerstein's whimsical, 3-dimensional hand painted sculptures are made of metal silhouettes which are laser cut and then hand-painted. Separators are used to create a three-dimensional impression.

His work is part of the permanent indoor and outdoor collections of the Israel Museum, Haifa Museum, Tefen Open Museum, The Science Museum in Jerusalem, Herzeliya Museum and Hebrew University. Gerstein has also installed large public works of art in Jerusalem, Ramat Hasharon, Lod and Ancient Avdat. In 1999, Gerstein was selected to exhibit in Washington, DC at the National Jewish Museum's exhibition "Israel at 50."
